IRISH REBELLION ENDED; LEADERS ARE PRISONERS

British Report That Uprising Has Collapsed and That Leading Figures Have Surrendered—Casualties Among Civilians is Reported To Be Heavy—Property Damage in Public Buildings And Other Places in Irish Capital Will Be Tremendous.

London, May 1.—Official announcement was made this afternoon that all the rebel leaders in Dublin had surrendered. General Maxwell, the British commander, announced tonight that the O'Reillys were among the prisoners. He also stated that the reports from the country districts showed that everywhere quiet was being restored and that the rebels were coming in by groups to surrender especially at Osborn and Ennis-corthy.

The Irish commander, Pearce, who is now a prisoner, was a schoolmaster. He was wounded by a shot in the leg.

The postoffice, which was in the hands of the rebels most of the week, when retaken was found to have been badly damaged by fire and shot.

Reports from the provincial districts show that the greatest disturbance under the city occurred in County Meath, where armed men still were terrorizing the countryside yesterday. In other districts there were minor disorders.

Many prisoners were captured and red-handed with weapons. Hundreds of others are being detained on suspicion of complicity in the outbreak. One man was caught in a chimney from which he had been sniping for four days and nights. He had a position of trust in the office of a steamship company.

The casualties up to the present are said to be very numerous, although the troops have not suffered as heavily as might have been expected from the nature of the fighting. The rebels suffered severely and hundreds of peaceful citizens were killed or wounded by them.

REBELS LAY DOWN ARMS AT PARNELL MONUMENT; HUNDREDS ARE CAPTIVES

Dublin, Sunday evening, April 30.—via London, May 1.—Rebels of the rank and file followed the example of their leaders this morning and realized the cause of the Irish republic was lost by laying down their arms at the foot of the Parnell Monument in Sackville street and surrendering to British troops.

About 450 of them, who had fought since Monday in this central area, marched out from their strongholds under the white flag and gave themselves up. A few irreconcilable continued sniping from lairs difficult to locate, on roofs or among rafters of buildings nearby.

Soon afterwards a rebel lieutenant, wearing a heather green uniform and carrying a white flag, came in with a guard of 10 men from the adjoining county of Meath to learn the truth about rumors of a general surrender. The party marched off to the castle and learned from J. H. Pearce, who was named provisional president of the Irish republic, that the movement had collapsed and was advised to resist no longer. The lieutenant and his escort then started out to parley with the rebels in the country districts in an effort to induce them to lay down their arms.

James Connolly, one of the leaders of the uprising, is said by government officials to be a prisoner, wounded, in the castle.

A correspondent of the Associated Press visited the entire area of the disturbance today. The desolation and destruction showed how severe the fighting was while it lasted. On the road leading to the four courts building, one found that all the windows had been shattered. The rebels had held the building in force for a week. Valuable law reference books and furniture were utilized to barricade windows and through interstices between the bulky volumes the rebels sniped without cessation, day and night and were fired on in turn until they were compelled to evacuate the premises.

Houses all around were hit by bullets. Some of them were barricaded with thick oaken planks. Over Wine Tavern bridge there were similar scenes.

This morning the streets were full of curious persons who were glad to have the opportunity to be about after their long confinement during which they were deprived of food un-

NEW SUBMARINE CHRISTENED FOR DEFENSE OF U.S.

Little Daughter of Commander Robinson Breaks Wine on Bow of L-5.

WHISTLES TOOT AND SPECTATORS CHEER
Col. Roosevelt's Brother-in-Law Among Guests at Lake Co. Shipyards.

Amid the tooting of whistles from many sea craft and factories, and a chorus of cheers from thousands of spectators, the L-5, the first of eight submarine boats which the Lake Torpedo Boat Co. is building for the United States government, was launched today at the yards of the company at the foot of Seaview avenue. The launching went off without a hitch except for the fact that it took place 18 minutes ahead of the schedule time. It had been planned for 10:30 but the tide rose early and Commander Richard H. M. Robinson, general manager of the company, rather than take a chance later gave the word to send the boat into the water.

The boat was sent, stern first, into the channel on the south side between the Lake yards and Steeplechase Island. A stand about 15 feet high and built to accommodate about a hundred persons had been erected at the bow of the boat which was well in shore. The boat rested on the usual cradle fixed to the underways which were covered thickly with grease. The fore-end of this cradle is known as the "nose." All that was necessary to effect the launching was the sawing of the extended fore-ends of the bottom timber of this cradle known technically as the "nose." This huge timber, bolted to the underways, held the boat in place.

As the workmen, at a signal from Commander Robinson, began sawing this timber his little daughter, Rosalind Robinson, appeared at the center of the stand. Long thin streams of silk bunting extended down the bow of the boat and were joined to a network of silk bunting yarp in which was encased a bottle of champagne. Miss Robinson held this bottle up with her shoulder and as the big timber was sawed through and the boat began slowly to slip along the ways she flung the bottle against the bow.

The bottle broke and the wine splashed over the sharp prow. As it did Miss Robinson said "I christen L-5 for national defense."

More than 3,000 invitations had been issued by the Lake Torpedo Boat Co. and it is estimated that fully that number were swarming in the Lake yards when the L-5 went off the ways. Hundreds of others were perched on the bridge to Steeplechase Island, on the shores of the creeks in the vicinity, on the roofs of near-by houses and on other vantage points.

As the new submarine slid gracefully into the water the cheers from this multitude almost drowned the check operations were held, was disclosed to show totals of $32,000 worth of such transactions during May and June, 1914.

An attempt to show that these check transactions had had the countenance of the directors of the Georgia Loan & Trust Co. or had been done by Knapp personally was abortive and Knapp declared that he is not now a director of the company and if he were he would not disclose a list of the stockholders to the investigators.

Although $130,000 in drafts were returned to Bridgeport in 1914 with checks aggregating $109,500 the investigation showed that no records were kept of the securities turned over to the Bridgeport bank.

Efforts to show that a divided not was kept at one of the local banks for the express purpose of covering overdrafts was not clearly accounted for in the investigation today.

Efforts to show that Mrs. Mary H. Burr was aware of transactions being made by the Burr & Knapp firm brought forth the assertion from the witness that if any criminal transactions were uncovered in the investigation he was alone responsible and would accept the blame. It was disclosed, however, that in the summer of 1913 the concern was much worse than it is now.

The indictments, which were returned by a special grand jury last Thursday, alleged that Mansfield was responsible for the deaths of Miss Janet Clarke, of Westerly, and Mrs. Olivia Martell, of Southbridge, Mass.

Judge Charles F. Stearns of the superior court, who presided at today's hearing, allowed Mansfield ten days in which to withdraw his plea, if he desired. He was released on $5,000 bond. The state's attorneys urged a speedy trial and suggested that it open next Monday.

Justice Stearns, however, said that because of the serious nature of the case the defendant should be allowed time to prepare his defense. The case probably will not be tried until September.

In his testimony before interstate commerce commission investigators, Engineer Mansfield asserted that the signals in the towers at Bradford were set in a conflicting manner, the distance being clear and the first "home" signal against him.

BANKERS SEEK TO PAY DEBT

Creditors Who Press Burr & Knapp Get Cash Back—Funds of Depositors Helped Pay Household Expenses—Knapp Defends Action.

Hearing of Bankrupt Is Reopened Before Commissioner Today—Comley Challenges Bowers' Motive in Investigation—Find Ridiculous Sales on Books.

Herbert M. Knapp, head of the former banking firm of Burr & Knapp, was called upon by the witness stand before Referee in Bankruptcy John W. Banks today to be examined by Spotswood D. Bowers, counsel for several creditors, as to his acts for the defunct company and many entries that appear on the books.

Among the facts disclosed at this morning's session, a continuance of which is on this afternoon are these: Mrs. H. M. Knapp drew $1,800 for her household expenses in addition to her regular division of profits from the company, and moneys paid to her by her husband.

Knapp, though many times "worried about the finances of the company, believed up to the day of the receivership, that something would come up which would permit the concern to go on." A court award of $187,000 to the Watervliet Hydraulic Co. came too late to prevent catastrophe.

That the Fairview Lawn property, recently sold for less than $1,000 was, as previously testified by Herve Burr, worth between $26,000 and $30,000 and that other securities of the company appraised at ridiculously low estimates have since been sold for large sums of money.

The Burr & Knapp Co. was accustomed to "kite" checks upon the Georgia Loan & Trust Co. through the First-Bridgeport National Bank and that shortly before the failure the practice was called "irregular" and Burr & Knapp were called upon to deposit $125,000 worth of securities with the local bank. The special account with the Georgia Loan & Trust Co. under which these check operations were held, was disclosed to show totals of $32,000 worth of such transactions during May and June, 1914.

An attempt to show that these check transactions had had the countenance of the directors of the Georgia Loan & Trust Co. or had been done by Knapp personally was abortive and Knapp declared that he is not now a director of the company and if he were he would not disclose a list of the stockholders to the investigators.

Although $130,000 in drafts were returned to Bridgeport in 1914 with checks aggregating $109,500 the investigation showed that no records were kept of the securities turned over to the Bridgeport bank.

U-BOAT CHASES PATRIA

French Liner, Arriving Today in New York, Reports Attack By Submarine—Torpedo Narrowly Misses Vessel.

New York, May 1.—The French passenger steamer Patria, which arrived here today from Naples and Palermo, reported that on her last outward voyage at 10 a. m., April 5, she was the target of a submarine torpedo attack in the Mediterranean. The torpedo missed the ship by about 10 feet, the officers said.

VICE COMMISSION URGES PURCHASE OF STEEPLECHASE

Wants Permanent Commission to Supervise Conduct of Amusement Park.

SALE PRICE SAID TO BE ABOUT $400,000

But City Through Park Board May Institute Condemnation Proceedings.

Notable among the recommendations which will be included in the forthcoming report of the vice commission is one that calls for the creation of a permanent commission on recreation, and for the acquisition for that commission, of the 70 acres of land once known as Steeplechase or Sea Breeze Island.

The vice commission's recommendation of the establishment of an amusement or recreation commission is based upon reports of investigators which are interpreted to indicate the need of a properly regulated place of amusement suitable for family recreation.

While the details are as yet only under discussion, the scope of the plan is to inaugurate an amusement park, with the city in charge, with its concessions for sale to lessees, who are to operate them under the supervision of the municipal commission.

The purchase of the island would be effected, under the plan of the vice commission, through the park department, which has the authority, in event of unsatisfactory negotiations with land owners, to take property for park purposes under condemnation proceedings, the court fixing a valuation on the property.

The park board has at its disposal, now for park improvements, as the result of the approval at the recent special election, $265,000 in bonds, to be sold, probably at a slight premium. The plan of the park board is to use the bulk of this cash in the Fayerweather Island project—the extension of the boulevard at Seaside Park from the present end, to the lighthouse on Fayerweather Island, and to build a road from this extended boulevard across Black Rock harbor into Brewster street.

The money to be realized from the park bonds, judging from the cost of the Fayerweather extension thus far completed, may be too little for the completion of all this work, and unless the park board is willing to co-operate in the project, it may be defeated for lack of cash.

The property is owned by the heirs of the late John H. McMahan. It is reported that the owner's price is in the neighborhood of $400,000.

ACCUSE ACTRESS OF FLEEING CASH

WOMAN OF CASH

Hazel Stewart's Name Involved in Glavin's Fight to Avert Extradition.

The charge that Hazel Stewart, a moving picture actress, and her lover, Michael J. Glavin, used hypnotic influence to get large sums from Marjorie J. Stoothoff, an elderly woman of great wealth, was made this morning when Glavin appeared before Judge Webb in court this morning to fight the attempt to take him back to New York state on papers signed by Governor Whitman of New York.

Relative of Miss Stoothoff, who is 75 years old, claim she is under influence of Miss Stewart and Glavin and they have brought proceedings in the Greenwich probate court to have a conservator appointed for Miss Stoothoff. Glavin made a dapper appearance in court this morning but lost some of his assurance when Judge Webb remanded him to the county jail pending appeal to the supreme court of errors.

The New York state authorities want Glavin on the charge of abandoning his wife for the chase of Miss Stewart. It is said, however, that Glavin fears that if he is sent back to New York other charges will be brought against him. On April 16 Glavin was arrested in Greenwich on the technical charge of breach of the peace. The following day he was arrested for obtaining goods under false pretenses and Miss Stewart was arrested for infidelity. The pair have not been sentenced pending the disposition of the superior court proceedings.

As soon as requisition papers arrived from New York, Attorney John C. Chamberlain of this city, of counsel for Glavin, brought Labaree corpus proceedings which were heard today. Attorney Raymond Hackett from the state's attorneys' office opposed the granting of the writ. When Judge Webb refused to prevent Glavin from being taken from this state, Glavin's lawyers wanted him released on bail pending an appeal to the supreme court. This was also denied but the court granted a stay of execution on the New York requisition pending the supreme court appeal.

Walter M. Anderson, clerk of the Greenwich borough court, filed a suit in the superior court this morning asking the court to determine the ownership of $12,000 furnished for bail for Glavin and Miss Stewart when they were arrested in Greenwich. Relatives of Miss Stoothoff claim the money was obtained by the arrested pair from the aged woman but Attorney George P. Rowell of Stamford says the money belongs to him. The suit is returnable to the June term.

At Hill 304 and in the Vaux region there were incessant bombardments. A French aerial squadron bombarded a supply and munitions station south of Theaucourt and a camp near Spincourt.

CONFERENCE ON MEXICO AWAITS OFFICIAL WORD

Resumption of Parley At Border Held Up For Short Time.

El Paso, May 1.—Resumption of the Scott-Funston-Oregon conference to consider the American military problem in Mexico may not be undertaken until late today or possibly tomorrow when it is believed officials in Washington will have had time to digest reports sent them by the American representatives of the war department here.

Generals Scott and Funston worked far into the night preparing reports and a code message was dispatched to the war department just before dawn. It is understood the army officers have asked permission to take up the question of withdrawal of troops from Mexico which General Oregon, minister of war of the de facto government, brought to the fore at the conference of Saturday.

That the conferences will finally settle the withdrawal question is not believed. Washington, it is said, has suggested that the American representatives obtain all possible data that may be produced by the Mexican conferees and forward a full report for the consideration of the state department, which now has under advisement Carranza's request for withdrawal of the American troops.

Oregon and his party think the conferences will be concluded by the middle of the week.

BPT. ELECTRICAL UNION DECLARES GENERAL STRIKE

More Pay, Shorter Hours and Closed Shop May Day Demands of Men.

More than 100 members of the Electrical Workers' Union of this city went on strike today for a minimum wage of $4 per day, 44 hours week and the closed shop. This action was taken after a very long meeting held yesterday afternoon in Lyric hall. The action of the electrical workers affects the United Illuminating Co., Kilpatrick & Hotz, the Gale Electrical Co., Flynn & Powers, William Rock and in fact every local firm in this city whose business is the placing of electric fixtures.

None of the outside contracting firms doing work in this city is affected by the strike, as their workmen are employed under agreements with the unions in the cities where their home offices are located. These are the firms doing the work at the Remington Arms & Ammunition Co. and the Union Metallic Cartridge Co., as well as on additions being made to other factories.

The electrical workers of the city went on strike two weeks ago for a closed shop. Several of the firms agreed to the closed shop and a minimum wage of $3.15 per day pending the demands to be made on May Day. On this agreement, their employees went back to work. The contractors were served notice by the officers of the union that they must sign the agreement for the closed shop, the 44 hour week and the $4 day by Saturday night or a general strike would be called. Only J. C. Hoffman signed the agreement.

At the meeting in Lyric hall yesterday after much discussion it was unanimously voted to call the strike. At press hour today officers of the union were hopeful that satisfactory adjustment would soon be made.

Baldwin lives at 23 Golden Hill street, Milford. He is a chemist in the employ of the Bridgeport Brass Co., and was on his way to work at the time of the accident. He was standing on the rear platform and as the passenger train swerved around, he fell from the platform and struck the roadway beneath the viaduct.

He received lacerations to the forehead, a broken collarbone and a probable fracture of the skull. He remained conscious. He was placed aboard the railroad train and taken to the depot where the train was met by a private ambulance and Baldwin transferred to the Bridgeport hospital.
